This savory Rhône blend brings aromas of spicy plum and olive on the nose, with flavors of raspberry, sage and barrel spice on the palate framed by grippy tannin that will need some time in the cellar to soften. —T.R.C.

California Grenache is often tasty but simple in its overt fruitiness, but this exemplary rendition shows remarkable complexity even in its first year. Red and black fruit tones are fully evident but are joined by savory and briary notes as well, and even the texture is layered, providing a sense of inviting softness as a first impression but then firming up with well-measured grip from ripe tannins and a touch of oak in the finish. — Michael Franz
